SUMMARY

Seeking a long-term career with a company as a Remote Front-End Engineer where I can learn, grow and share my knowledge and skills to help build great software products and applications for the company & the web

ABOUT MY SKILLS

Currently working with Architects on releasing a NEW Vanilla JS Extremely Lightweight OOP/MVC Framework (ARD2D), see portfolio below. With 15 years' experience in the field to date, one of my core skills is building accessible applications for Web & Mobile devices. Some technologies I've been experimenting with to enable this is leveraging the W3C/HTML5 Standards and practices such as First Contentful Paint, Time to Interactive, Speed Index, Total Blocking Time, Largest Contentful Paint & Cumulative Layout Shifts Metrics in addition to using JavaScript API's available today and client sessions to cache and sync with backend services when available. With doing do, achieving high-end scores for Performance, Best Practices and SEO...etc.

EXPERIENCE

MAY 2020 – PRESENT

FRONT-END DEVELOPER, ARC2D – FRAMEWORK DEV & DEPLOYMENT

POSITION TYPE: REMOTE

The Arc Engine (ARC2D) is a native, W3C compliant ES6/7 Framework for building enterprise-class 2D/Web/Mobile Applications. Over a decade old, Arc began as a personal R&D project to reduce and reuse repetitive UI patterns, cutting time and costs on projects dating back to 2007. It has since evolved slowly across prestigious companies used primarily for in-house internal applications. Arc is now going public. No webpack, grunt, babel, pre- or post-processors needed. Optional dependencies vary on the developer.

ARC2D is constructed to support creation of Single Page Applications & True HTML5 WebComponents that can be used on any framework/library without code re-write, no framework or library currently supports this feature. It also eliminates the use of complex JS State Management, Heavy Website/Application Dependencies (Routers, Redux, Redux Saga/Thunk, Stores, Middleware's...etc), Webpack, Bundlers & so much more. The Arc engine is just 10KB/1,400 Lines of Code (LOC) in size built with many powerful revolutionary features modern frameworks & libraries today struggle with while making data-binding easy for developers & maintaining CSS between applications and websites in a straightforward way using cascading, style inheritance & namespaced applications. More information can be explained at Arc2D Documentation: <https://www.arc2d.com/resources/doc>
